

Maya hears the sound of flapping wings. It's spring on the kibbutz. A large flock of white storks flies overhead, making its way from Africa to Europe, where they will spend the summer. Maya knows the storks will land on the kibbutz to rest. They always do.

